Roemer Industries is a well-known supplier in the custom identification industry with an extensive product offering.

In this edition of Roemer Reports, we will discuss one of the label printing processes ... Flexographic Printing.

Flexographic Printing is a form of printing that utilizes a flexible relief plate. This process can be used to print almost any type of substrate including plastic, metallic films, vinyl and paper. For large volumes and low cost printing of custom labels, few processes beat the flexographic method.

Let Roemer show you how!
